

Title of Motion Picture

Mysteries of old Chinatown

Produced and Manufactured by
PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.
NEW YORK, N. Y.

Copyrighted

This is a simple story of the simple life down in the heart of the Bowery's Chinatown. Trick doors, trap door and locked door opened and closed.

Dopey cats get dope from Hop Sing for a dollar bill and go skating away.

There is a sweet little love affair between Bertram and Lizzie Mouse, and they get along just great, but the desperate villian cat from the deepest and darkest of Chinatown tries to steal her and carry her away in his trick sedan aeroplane.

Our hero Bertie Mouse manages to follow close behind in a fast flying bird. After a time he lands on the plane and battles all the chinks single handed, then they sink the aeroplane. It crashes right into the chinks art theatre and our hero kills the villian right on the stage. Then while the lovers kiss a chorus of musical comedy mice dance in the background.

AESOP says. -"Chinatown and hash have their mysteries."

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress